Training and Resources for Systems, Providers,
Community Agencies, Family, and Youth

A Story of Hope

presented by Bertice Berry, Ph.D.

Date:

Thursday, March 25, 2021

2:30 pm to 4 pm EST

In this presentation, Sociologist, best-selling author, and mother of five, Bertice Berry, Ph.D. argues that how we tell our story is how we are living our lives. “If we can tell better stories, we can live more productive, harmonious and peaceful lives.” Berry says.

Sociological Story Telling, or using story as a means of understanding, connecting, and belonging, is finding a new place among scholars and business leaders. However, Berry points out that it is also an effective tool for empowering its users to present the self they want and need others to see.

Using her unique blend of storytelling and humor, Berry will make you think and feel.
