

47th Annual Magee Alumni Day

Program Schedule

Friday, October 28, 2022

UPMC, Magee-Womens Hospital

Drs. Hutchinson and Hayashi Auditorium

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Overview

For this year's Magee Alumni Day program, we have an exciting line-up of speakers consisting of past and current faculty and former residents. The program will feature updates on clinical care over the entire age spectrum of our patients. We expect the program to present topics that pose challenging clinical, technical, ethical, and financial issues that today's OB/GYN often faces, whether in practice or in an academic career. The program features endowed lectures — the Cohen, McCall, OB/GYN Legacy, Katz Minimally Invasive Surgery, Dr. Alan Kunschner Memorial and Dr. Steve N. Caritis lectures.

Target Audience

This program is focused on health care practitioners in obstetrics and gynecology as well as in other primary care specialties.

Objectives

- Interventions that may improve newborn and maternal health worldwide.
- Review cervical cancer screening recommendations.
- Understand where genetic material for noninvasive prenatal screening and testing comes from
- To highlight alternative pain management options for endometriosis patients who have failed traditional treatments.
- Discuss screening guidelines for patients with hereditary cancer syndromes.
